Ar y Dibyn: Call-out for Artists

We are looking for multi-disciplined artists to contribute to Ar y Dibyn, an innovative and ambitious project.

The aim of the project is to offer a series of workshops for individuals who have personal experience of addiction, or who have supported others, to be held in a safe and supportive environment without judgement. We are eager to create artistic experiences that lead to promoting the well-being of individuals and communities.

Training and professional mentoring will be offered to the artists before starting the work, and support from a professional health worker/counsellor will be available at every workshop for participants and artists.

We aim to give voice to experiences of addiction through the medium of Welsh, and to create artistic experiences that are moving, tender and inspired.

There will be 4 series of workshops, each of 6 weeks' duration, held in several locations and online.

Artists may declare an interest in contributing occasionally or more regularly, in the period between September and December 2021.

We are looking for brave and open-minded artists who are willing to work towards creating experimental and provocative art.

We are offering a fee of £175 to include a 2-hour workshop, together with preparation work with the lead artist.

Please send your CV by email to nia.skyrme@theatr.com or a short video to 07903 842562, noting why you would like to join the project.

Closing date to declare an interest: 24 June 2021.
