BRÊN. CALON. fi.

gan / by Bethan Marlow

18.06.25 – 26.06.25

Dyma Fi: hogan pentra' efo gwallt spikes a BMX, yn ffansio genod ond cogio bod yn strêt; yn disgyn mewn cariad efo dynas ar cae rygbi ond cheith hi'm deud wrth neb bod hi'n disgyn mewn i'w gwely; mynd i Llundan i fod yn lesbian mewn byd lesbian yn caru bob lesbian eiliad... nes bod hi ddim.

Wrth i Fi fynd â ni ar daith o'i bywyd carwriaethol – y crushes cyfrinachol, y caru lletchwith a'r tor-calon blêr – mae'n dod i ddeall cymhlethdodau byw'n driw i'w hun wrth dyfu fyny fel tomboy yn y nawdegau.

Datblygwyd yn wreiddiol gyda chefnogaeth gan Eisteddfod Genedlaethol Cymru a pherfformiwyd yn wreiddiol ym Mhontypridd 2024.

Meet Fi: a girl in a North Wales village with spiky hair and a BMX, fancying girls but pretending to be straight; falling for a woman on the rugby team without telling anyone that she's also fallen into her bed; going to London to be a lesbian in a lesbian world loving every lesbian second... until she's not.

As Fi takes us on a journey through her love life – the secret crushes, the awkward sex and the messy heartbreak – she explores the complexities of being true to yourself while growing up as a tomboy in the nineties.

Originally developed with support from the National Eisteddfod of Wales and performed at Pontypridd 2024.

Hon ydi'r ddrama mwya' bersonol dwi erioed wedi sgwennu. Achos allai ddim cynrychioli bob un lesbian yng Nghymru. Ma profiada' bob un ohona ni yn wahanol yn ddibynnol ar bwy ydi rhieni ni, pwy 'da ni wedi'u dewis yn ffrindia' a pha ddylanwadau positif neu negyddol sydd o'n cwmpas ni wrth dyfu fyny.

O'n i ishio sgwennu'r ddrama yma, ddim achos bo fi ishio rhannu fy mywyd personol i ond achos bo fi ishio i gymdeithas wrando a deall pa mor ddylanwadol ma nhw'n gallu bod. Ma geiria'n sdicio, ma nhw'n gallu bod yn bwerus a ma nhw'n gallu bod yn ddiawledig o frwnt hefyd.

Dwi'n cofio Mam a Dad yn deutha fi pan o'n i'n ddeg oed "os fasa chdi byth yn dod ata ni i ddeud bo chdi'n hoyw, da ni ishio i chdi wbod fasa ni'n caru chdi union run fath". Dwi'n fythol ddiolchgar mod i wedi ca'l clwad y geiria' yna a bo fi 'di ca'l rhieni mor blydi brilliant.

Ma geiria'n bwerus. O hyn ymlaen dwi am ddefnyddio nhw'n ofalus achos tydw i ddim wastad wedi.

This is the most personal play I've ever written. Because I can't represent every lesbian in Wales. All of our individual experiences are different, depending on who our parents are, who we chose as friends and which positive and negative influences were around us growing up.

I wanted to write this play, not because I wanted to share my own personal life but because I wanted society to listen and understand how influential they can be. Words stick, they can be powerful and they can be horrifically nasty too.

I remember Mam and Dad telling me when I was 10 years old: "if you ever come to tell us that you're gay we want you to know that we'd love you just the same." I'm forever grateful that I got to hear those words and that I had such bloody brilliant parents.

Words are powerful. From now on, I intend to use them more carefully because I haven't always done that.

Gai ddiolch o galon i Theatr Cymru a'r Eisteddfod Genedlaethol am gefnogi fi a lleisiau LHDT+ Cymru achos dim bob gwlad fasa'n rhoi llwyfan genedlaethol i ni.

Dwi hefyd ishio diolch i bob lesbian hen sydd wedi brwydro a phrotestio dros ein hawlia' ni achos hebddyn nhw fasa gin i ddim gwraig, faswn i ddim yn fam a faswn i ddim yn teimlo'n ddigon dewr na saff i allu rhannu hefo'r byd bo fi'n caru vaginas!

I'd like to thank Theatr Cymru and the National Eisteddfod for supporting me and Welsh LGBT+ voices because not every country would give us a national platform.

I'd also like to thank every older lesbian who fought and protested for our rights because without them I wouldn't have a wife, I wouldn't be a mother and I wouldn't feel brave or safe enough to share with the world that I love vaginas!

Rhiannon Mair

Fi'n caru'r theatr. Fi'n caru'r modd y mae'n ein gorfodi ni i eistedd gyda'r byd sy'n cael ei gyflwyno, a myfyrio arno. Ni mor gyfarwydd â sweipio pan y'n ni wedi cael digon o stori, neu newid sianel os yw rhaglen yn mynd yn ormod, ond dyw theatr ddim yn caniatau hynny. Mae yna elfen ddeuol i'r agwedd ddwys hon yn Brân. Calon. Fi. sef bod y cyfrwng nid yn unig yn gwneud i'r gynulleidfa wrando a dod wyneb yn wyneb â stori'r cymeriad (Fi), ond bod hynny ar ffurf digwyddiad theatrig, sydd yn cymhell Fi i ddod wyneb yn wyneb â'i stori hi ei hun, a thrwy hynny, dod i ddeall sut mae gwahanol llinynnau ei bywyd yn dod ynghyd.

Fel rhywun oedd yn tyfu lan yn y nawdegau, mae'r cyfeiriadau'n y script at fanylion diraethol y cyfnod hwnnw'n taro'r nôd mewn modd hiraethus. Ond hawdd yw cofio'r dyddie da; mae'r geiriau hefyd yn atgof pwysig nad oedd cymdeithas yn garedig at bobl oedd yn wahanol i'r mwyafrif, ac mae llawer o'r rhagfarnau hynny'n bresennol hyd heddiw. Mae'r frwydr ymhell o fod drosodd.

I love the theatre. I love the way it urges us to sit with the world that's being presented, and meditate on it. We're so used to swiping when we've had enough of a story, or changing the channel if the programme becomes too much, but theatre doesn't allow that. There's a duality to this in Brân. Calon. Fi – the medium not only makes the audience listen and come face-to-face with the character Fi's story, but the theatrical event also compels Fi to face her own story, and to understand how the different strands of her life come together.

As someone who grew up in the 1990s, the script's references to tangible details from that period strike a nostalgic chord. But it's easy to remember the good times; the play is also an important reminder that society wasn't kind to people who were different to the norm, and that many of those prejudices are still present today. The battle is far from over.

Mae Brân. Calon. Fi. yn stori am lesbian ifanc yn ceisio darganfod troedle mewn byd oedd wedi ei darbwyllo nad oedd hynny'n bosib, ei bod hi yn 'rong'. Mae theatr yn caniatau rhannu stori, ac yn fwyfwy mae'r llwyfan yn gallu bod yn blaftfform i glywed lleisiau grwpiau sydd wedi eu tangynrychioli'n cael eu rhannu. Dwi'n grediniol fod theatr yn gyfrwng all newid y byd er gwell.

Mae e wedi bod yn faint gweithio gyda script Bethan Marlow, sydd yn frith o guriadau, o drosiadau annisgwyl, gyda'r is-destun wastad yn byrlymu'n agos at yr wyneb. Mae Lowri Morgan yn berfformiwr greddyfol, galluog, sydd yn cyflwyno Fi mewn modd mor ddiwyll ac mae wedi bod yn bleser bod yn yr ystafell ymarfer gyda hi. Gan eu bod nhw, ynghyd â Cara Hood, Cêt Haf, Josh Bowles a Liv Jones, mor ardderchog yn yr hyn y maen nhw'n ei wneud, mae fy ngwaith i fel cyfarwyddwr yn reit hawdd. Rwy'n gobeithio fy mod wedi gallu cadw'r stori'n ddiffuant a chwareus, gan droedio'r ffîn hynny rhwng y doniolwch a'r dirdynnol.

Brân. Calon. Fi is the story of a young lesbian trying to find her place in a world that's convinced her she doesn't belong and that she's 'wrong'. Theatre allows us to share stories, and increasingly the stage is becoming a platform to share the voices of under-represented groups. I believe that theatre is an artform that can change the world for the better.

It's been an honour to work with Bethan Marlow's fantastic script; its rhythms and unexpected metaphors, with the subtext always bubbling below the surface. Lowri Morgan is an intuitive and talented performer, presenting Fi in such a sincere way and it's been a pleasure being in the rehearsal room with her. Because they, along with Cara Hood, Cêt Haf, Josh Bowles and Liv Jones, have been so excellent in what they do, my work as a director has been straightforward. I hope that I've managed to retain the sincerity and playfulness within the story, toeing the line between humour and heartbreak.

Mae Theatr Cymru yn perthyn i chi.

The company was founded in March 2003, with a grant from the Arts Council of Wales. From the very beginning, one thing was clear – that it would be a touring company, taking Welsh-language theatre into the heart of communities up and down the country. The company would celebrate our identities and our language in all its diversity.

Over the last two decades, the company has embraced the classics of Welsh-language theatre as well as new and experimental work, presenting in traditional theatres and in unexpected locations. The company also facilitates creative, wellbeing and participatory projects across the country. Theatr Cymru is now an acclaimed touring theatre, placing Wales and its people on the map, and welcoming to all. With Steffan Donnelly taking the reins as Artistic Director in 2022, alongside Joint Chief Executive Angharad Jones Leefe, and a new name for the company, a new era is dawning.

Theatr Cymru belongs to you.
